SANSKRITI NEWSLETTER
JULY - SEPTEMBER 2023

Dear friend,

This quarter brings more libraries and more readers along with other updates of making a difference on the ground. We are happy moving one step at a time in our journey and it feels great that our every new library becomes a center of hope for many people. We are committed to continue work with undying spirit until we make India a land libraries. Always grateful for the support we receive from you.

As we have broadened our vision to 1000 free libraries, we need to work more. We need to take more action and we are on it. We are moving ahead with head high in the direction to bring long lasting change in the society. You would be happy to know that we are also in planning and ideation phase to develop India's first reading village in Uttarakhand. In coming months, you will hear more from us in this context. Please connect with us if you want to extend more support to this project of reading village.

As of now, get to know more about our actions done on the ground in last quarter. Cherish and support the work we are doing and keep supporting us to continue being the beacon of change.

Thank you,
Jogi

Sanskriti Library # 113

Libraries are indeed special places where children can explore new worlds through books. This time Sanskriti found the address of Newman school, Neotan Namphai-1, Miao, Arunachal Pradesh. Around 120 story books in both English and Hindi were provided to the children, allowing them to enjoy reading sessions and expand their horizons.

Acknowledging Ms. Portia for her support in setting up the library is a great way to show appreciation for those who contribute to such valuable initiatives.

Empowering children with books and libraries is a noble mission. Reading not only broadens their knowledge but also fosters a lifelong love for learning. Be a part of the change and continue to support and promote literacy and education among children.

Sanskriti Library # 114

We opened our next library in village Talla Supi, Uttarakhand. The library is named "Janmaitri Gram Library". Let's promote literacy and knowledge in rural areas.

Seeing the interest of the youth we expanded the library's collection to include literature, culture, and history books along with children's books. It allows people of all ages to access a wide range of information and knowledge, fostering a deeper understanding of their culture and heritage.

It's also heartwarming to hear that two dedicated young individuals are taking charge of its operations, ensuring that the library serves as a hub for learning and creativity in the village.
It's our vision that this library become a place for people to read, think together, and engage in creative activities is a wonderful way to strengthen the community and empower its residents. Let's Be The Change!

Sanskriti Library #115

We are happy to add another library to our "Mission 1000 Free Libraries" in the picturesque village of Jaurasi, Pitthoragarh, Uttarakhand! "Shree Balak Dev Pustakalya" sounds like a remarkable addition to our initiative. With a collection of 1000 captivating books, this library is sure to be a haven of knowledge and inspiration for the villagers. It caters to people of all ages, from curious children to wisdom-seeking elders, providing a place for everyone in the community to access and enjoy books.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to Mr. Shankar Singh Bhatia for his dedication and support in realizing this mission. Individuals like him play a crucial role in bringing positive change to communities through the power of books and education.

Your commitment to this mission is truly inspiring, and it's clear that you're making a significant impact by spreading knowledge and fostering a love for reading in rural areas. Let's Be The Change!!

Independence Day

We celebrated Independence Day on August 15th in a special way. We organized a poem and dance competition for the children in the centre. The children were divided into two groups, with the younger ones participating in the poem and dance competitions, and the older children participating in the dance competition. In the younger group, Mohit won first place in the poem competition, and Mahima won first place in the dance competition. Among the older children, Geeta secured the first prize in the dance competition. The children recited patriotic poems and performed dances to patriotic songs. Such events help instil a sense of patriotism and culture in the children. Jai Hind!

Hindi Diwas

We always make an effort to celebrate special occasions with children in the centre. On September 14th, we celebrated Hindi Diwas and organized a Hindi essay competition on that day. The younger children wrote essay on Diwali, and it's heartening to know that they expressed the significance of Diwali so well.

In the younger group, Mohit won the first prize, and Shivani secured the second prize. The older children wrote essays on environmental conservation, showcasing their awareness and concern for the environment.

It's essential to educate and encourage young minds about the importance of environmental conservation. Congratulations to Geeta for securing the first position and to Suman for achieving the second position in the competition. Recognizing and rewarding their efforts in such competitions encourages children to express themselves effectively and develop their writing skills.

100 Stories of Change

Our "100 Stories of Change" initiative showcases the impact of our efforts on the ground. It's heartwarming to hear that children and teachers are sharing their thoughts and experiences on how books have changed their lives. Stories like these inspire others to support and engage in similar initiatives. Surely, many people will find these stories inspiring and will be encouraged. Do follow our page for updates.
